GOP caucus votes Huff as new county auditor

BY BOB DEMAREE

A caucus of Jefferson County Republican precinct committeemen voted Wednesday for Heather Huff to be the new Jefferson County Auditor beginning Tuesday.

The caucus was called by Jefferson County Republican chairman Pam Crozier following the resignation earlier this month of Sherry Eblen, who had served as County Auditor since Sept. 5, 2014 when she was appointed to complete the unexpired term of Celeste Reed, and then elected in both 2014 and 2018.

Heather Huff

No other candidates filed for the position, but precinct committeemen were still required to vote by secret sealed ballot and after the votes were tallied, Huff was duly elected.

Huff is a lifelong Jefferson County resident from Deputy who graduated from Madison Consolidated High School in 2003. She and her husband, Jason, have two children, Quinton, 15, and Sydney, 13, and she is active with 4-H serving as a club leader.

Huff has spent most of her working career with Jefferson County government except for a brief time after attending Ivy Tech when she worked for Centra Credit Union. Overall, she has worked 13 years for the county including 11 years in the Auditor's Office. She also worked a short time in the County Treasurer's Office

"The auditor's office has always been home to me. That's my comfort zone," Huff said. "I love working with budgets, working with the County Council and resolving problems, and getting things to where they need to be. The Auditor's office is the hub" of everything that goes on in county government. "Everyone is in contact with us all the time."

Pursuit related to theft from outlet mall ends in crash

Woman, two men arrested in separate theft totaling $10K from Polo outlet

BY THE COURIER STAFF

A Kentucky woman was arrested Wednesday on numerous charges after she fled from a traffic stop on I-65 near Seymour and led police on a 30-minute pursuit through three counties.

Taneasha L. Chappell

The incident began at approximately 12:45 p.m. when the Indiana State Police-Versailles Post was notified that a theft of numerous items of merchandise had just occurred at the Polo Ralph Lauren Store at the Premium Outlet Mall near Edinburgh, Indiana. Troopers were notified that the female suspect was driving a white Chevrolet Impala, the car was reported to have a Kentucky registration plate that the suspect allegedly removed from the vehicle before leaving the scene.

At a about 1 p.m. Trooper Korry Clark located the vehicle traveling southbound on I-65 in Jackson County and conducted a traffic stop on the vehicle near the 50-mile marker, just north of the Seymour exit. Clark made contact with the driver who matched the description of the suspect and attempted to take the suspect, later identified as Taneasha L. Chappell, 23, of Louisville, into custody when she pulled away from him and got back into the vehicle with Clark sustaining a minor abrasion during the altercation.

Chappell then fled from troopers in the vehicle and was pursued southbound on I-65 through Jackson, Scott and Clark Counties with speeds reaching 100 mph. Troopers from the Indiana State Police-Sellersburg Post along with numerous other agencies assisted in the pursuit.

At one point during the pursuit, Chappell's vehicle collided with the rear of a commercial motor vehicle. Chappell's car eventually left the roadway at Exit 7 on I-65 near Clarksville where it came to a stop after being badly damaged. Chappell exited the vehicle and attempted to flee on foot but was soon taken into custody after being tased. Another trooper sustained a hand injury during the foot pursuit and was transported to a Louisville area hospital for treatment.

Numerous suspected stolen items, valued at more than $3,000, were located in Chappell's vehicle. Suspected marijuana was also found in her possession.

Chappell was transported to Schneck Medical Center in Seymour or medical clearance and to submit to a chemical test for intoxication. She was then lodged in the Jackson County Jail on numerous felony and misdemeanor charges related to resisting law enforcement. She also potentially faces additional charges related to the theft in Bartholomew County.

Just prior to the Chappell pursuit, Clark had conducted a traffic stop on a Dodge Journey on I-65 near Seymour at about 11:45 a.m. after it was reported that the two occupants had stolen numerous items from Polo Ralph Lauren at the Edinburgh Premium Outlet Mall.

Edinburgh Police Department responded to the scene and arrested the two occupants, Haamiyna T. Kamose, 24, and Damiya K. Tooley, 23, both of Louisville, on theft charges related to the incident. They were found to be in possession of nearly $7,000 worth of stolen merchandise.

Clark was assisted in that investigation by Sgt. Bryce Harris, Sgt. Stephen Wheeles, Trooper Taylor Ranshaw, and officers with the Edinburgh Police Department.

Group seeking local facility to address substance abuse

BY BOB DEMAREE

Jim Courter is passionate about helping people dealing with substance abuse and he hopes someday soon Jefferson County will have a place to help residents overcome their addiction. Since January he has joined with Commissioner Ron Lee to hold monthly meetings to find ways to get it done.

The group actually took some baby steps forward at its most recent regular monthly meeting.

Courter, a retiree from the Madison State Hospital, would like a new 24-bed, two-story facility for substance abuse treatment locally. Jefferson Superior Judge Blaine Goode said the group should welcome an more modest start if it means getting help to those who need it more quickly.

"We just need a building," Goode said, noting one that's available now or soon will be vacant would serve the same purposed .

But even with that, the group is still exploring ways to pay for the project.

"What about the financing of it? Where would that come from?" Courter asked.

Representatives of LifeSpring Health System attended the meeting so there was some discussion on what that organization might be able to provide should a building be available. There's no certainty that will develop, but Lauren Perryman, LifeSpring's vice president of recovery, attended the meeting along with LifeSpring's Denise Poukish, senior vice president of forensic services, and Joe Higgins, vice president for the Eastern Division and they noted the agency is interested in being involved.

"We want to be part of the conversation," Perryman said.

LifeSpring, a not-for-profit Community Health Center that serves 11 counties across southern Indiana including Jefferson County, already operates the Turning Point Center in Jeffersonville to provide a one-stop experience to help people seeking to recover from behavioral health and addiction issues.

The group will continue its efforts at its next meeting at 5 p.m. on Thursday, June 17.

VMI, JCBT struggle again to finalize contract

Both sides to let attorneys work out wording

BY BOB DEMAREE

The Jefferson County Board of Tourism and Visit Madison Inc. met Monday to hammer out more details of VMI's contract extending into 2022 but finished once again without a signed deal.

The best the two could do was address some of their remaining points of concern and agree to meet again after attorneys for both sides work to finalize the wording.

The agenda for Monday's meeting actually included a line item to finalize the contract, but no final vote was taken even though officials from both VMI and JCBT seemed to reach details of a contract that will provide guidelines for JCBT's funding of VMI from the county innkeepers tax.

JCBT Board president David Bramer said the hope is that a meeting can take place in a few days depending on the availability of the attorneys to get their work done. Later in the meeting, both sides expressed they are very close to a final deal for funding VMI.

VMI president Lucy Dattilo was insistent that the word "festivals" be included in the contract as part of the role of VMI because she said festivals are a significant part of what VMI does in promoting Jefferson County.

Bramer said there is "no real motive involved" in taking out the word "festivals" and he expressed it was done because VMI is involved with festivals "independent from us, so he said it was felt there's no need to include that word."

"It's more than a word to VMI," said Dattilo, noting that festivals are an integral part of how they work to bring tourism dollars into Jefferson County. "Don't you want us to be involved in something that is an economic generator for the county?"

Dattilo said she feared that leaving out "festivals" could provide a loophole that might impact VMI's funding— especially since VMI spends a lot of time on festival and specifically has a staff position for event coordinator.

JCBT board member Todd Boone cautioned that "There's no reason splitting hairs over one word."

There was also discussion over the level of financial detail VMI should provide to JCBT. Bramer said greater specific detail is needed because JCBT will be working with the County Council later this summer during the county's budget discussions, and funding for VMI will be included in those negotiations.

Additionally, the contract discussion involved including a mechanism that connects VMI's marketing funding to what the county collects from the innkeepers' tax. Going into 2020, JCBT had appropriated $189,000 for VMI to do marketing, but due to the impact of COVID-19 pandemic, there was significantly less money coming from the innkeepers tax.

"We need relief if another COVID happens," Boone said.

"We never expect to receive money you don't have," Dattilo said.

"All last year you wanted money we didn't have," Bramer countered.

Former County Council member Joe Craig emphasized the importance of effectively marketing Madison and especially now after the community was hit so hard financially by the pandemic last year.

"We will build it back up," Craig said, noting it's important to take advantage of that and bring visitors back to Jefferson County. There's "a lot of pent up desire to get out and do something ... We have a great story to tell."

Working dumb hours

ANNIE LANE
DEAR ANNIE

Dear Annie: I work in health and wellness for the largest retailer in the world. I love my job, but there are so many things I don't understand.

Management is always on us about making money (which I understand), but no matter what we do, it is never enough. We reside in a depressed area and really do quite well for where we live.

With all the pressure management puts on us about sales and eliminating waste, our district manager demands that we work such wasteful hours. We are at the office until 8 in the evening even though no one comes in that late. I keep looking for something to do. We work from 12 to 5 on Sundays, and usually there are no customers — just people walking by asking, "Why are you working on a Sunday?" On Memorial Day, Fourth of July, Labor Day and other holidays, we work from 9 to 6. It is not unusual to have customers who are on vacation and want trial contact lenses because theirs are ripped or lost. When we can't give them what they want (we need a doctor's permission to give out contacts), they become irate. Sometimes it gets intense. This is pretty much how the day goes — dealing with irate customers and getting no sales.

What can we do to let members of management know there are better ways to treat their employees and still save money? They simply will not listen. It's typical top-down management. Things are good for those who are on top but frustrating for those who aren't so far up the ladder. — Love My Job but Just Don't Understand

Dear LMJBJDU: Many companies today have wised up to the value of employee feedback and started conducting periodic reviews. If your employer does, take the opportunity to share your insights. Focus on what the company stands to gain by cutting back during low-traffic hours. Your case will be more convincing if you can offer some concrete examples — so the next time you're working one of these shifts, take notes on sales, staffing, etc. Because it's such a huge retailer with stores nationwide, there may be blanket policies that your managers have to follow even if they don't make much sense at your location. But it's worth at least proffering your two cents.

If management brushes you off and things continue not to change, it might be time to channel your frustration into filling out some job applications — preferably with smaller companies, where you might be able to play a bigger role.

"Ask Me Anything: A Year of Advice From Dear Annie" is out now! Trying to avoid Rovergate

Dear Annie: I have a family situation that I am not sure how to handle. My middle daughter lives in another town, where she is attending graduate school. In three weeks, she will begin a summer internship in her hometown, where her mother and I live.

I have not asked her where she plans to live for the summer, due to her busy exam and study schedule. We want her to stay with us — except for her dog, which she rescued from a shelter about three years ago. The dog and my daughter are very attached to each other, and in general, the relationship has been very good for both of them.

The problem is that her dog is hyper and has had problems cohabitating with the two other dogs living in my house. We have had my daughter and her dog at our house several times before, and we also kept him once for a week when she was traveling. My wife and I cannot handle the stress of her dog and his destruction for the summer.

We would like to offer our house to our daughter, knowing she will still be required to pay rent at her school apartment and likely cannot afford rent during the internship in another town.

How do we approach her about her summer living arrangements before we get this sprung on us a few days in advance of her start date, knowing she probably does not have an option for the dog? — Not Quite the Empty Nesters

Dear Not Quite the Empty Nesters: In order to avoid "Rovergate," you must act swiftly and directly. Speak with your daughter about possible dog trainers or videos and books that could help her train the dog to not have destructive behavior.

Before your daughter moves in, go for walks or fun outings with your fur babies and hers. That way the dogs can hopefully establish a friendship outside the home, on neutral territory.

ANNIE LANE
DEAR ANNIE

Dear Annie: I am the mother of four adult children. I have many happy memories of all their childhoods, including birthdays, graduations and other milestones. I feel I have wonderful relationships with three of them (and their spouses).

The fourth has been challenging, to say the least. He rarely visits and seems uncomfortable and angry around me. Everything I know about his life I find out from his siblings. He has some substance abuse issues that he refuses to acknowledge — I think that's part of what is going on. It's certainly not where I imagined we would be at this stage of our lives.

How do I proceed? He doesn't seem open to, or capable of, letting me in. Is there hope for a relationship when it's one-sided? Do I just ignore the behavior and hope he comes around? I love him dearly, but liking him is becoming more difficult. — Sad and Hopeless

Dear Sad and Hopeless: Where there is love, there is hope. Your relationship with your son can certainly be saved. Since your three other children have a good relationship with him, ask them whether they can help him acknowledge his substance abuse issues. He must be treated for that, first and foremost, because until then, you are not dealing with him but the substances altering his brain and personality.

Ignoring his behavior won't do him any favors. It sounds like he is hurting, and when someone is hurting, there is nothing like a family member showing they care. Maybe your other children will be able to get through to him. Even if he continues to push you away, just come back to him with love.

Community foundation grant cycle open

BY SPECIAL TO THE COURIER

The Community Foundation of Madison and Jefferson County's annual competitive grant cycle is now open for applications.

Online applications will be accepted until noon on Aug. 2. During last year's cycle, the foundation awarded more than $127,500 to 14 nonprofit organizations serving Jefferson County.

Online applications will be accepted until noon on Aug. 2. During last year's cycle, the foundation awarded more than $127,500 to 14 nonprofit organizations serving Jefferson County.

Competitive grants are made possible by Flexible Community Funds and Field of Interest Funds. Flexible funds allow the grants committee to assist the ever-changing needs and dreams of local citizens while field of interest funds benefit specific interests, such as the arts, the environment or youth development. Organizations must create a profile and complete the online request application available at www.cfmjc.org.

"We welcome 501©3 organizations interested in applying to call us with any questions they may have about the application process," said Community Foundation staff member Kelly Miller, who oversees the process. "We're here and available to help applicants put their best foot forward."

Miller shared some tips when applying for grants:

- Don't wait until the last minute to submit your application.
- Set a realistic timeline for and demonstrate sustainability of the project.
- Break out the specific costs of the project, include pricing quotes, and only show costs and data related to serving Jefferson County.
- Make sure 100% of your Board of Directors contribute financially to your organization.
- Don't apply with a project that will be completed before the end of September 2021.
- Don't assume that your request amount is too large or too small.

Established in 1991 by a group of local volunteers, the Community Foundation of Madison and Jefferson County fulfills the mission of building a strong, vibrant community by helping donors provide perpetual funding for the people, projects, and passions of Jefferson County. In the past 30 years, the Community Foundation has reinvested more than $15.5 million dollars into the community through grants and scholarships.

For more information, visit www.cfmjc.org/grants or contact Kelly Miller at 812-274-0242 or kelly@cfmjc.org.

CAUCUS

Huff said she has gained a great deal experience while working in the Courthouse. "I have been through fires, floods, and now I'm working through our second jail construction project. It's always changing," she said. "There are a lot of hours and detail put into the budget, but I like helping to keep the county budget balanced. It is very rewarding to keep everything in check and protect the taxpayer."

Huff has served several roles in the Auditor's office including working as the Transfer and Deduction Clerk, Accounts Payable and Receivables, Payroll, and currently as Second Deputy. For the last couple of years, her role in the Auditor's office has involved attending County Council meetings along with Eblen.

"I have worked very closely with Sherry," said Huff, adding that experience should make for "a smooth transition" and the two have "had a great working relationship."

"It's very bittersweet to see her leave," Huff said of Eblen. "She was a good boss, and I have loved the time working with her. She has taught me a lot."

Eblen's last day as County Auditor was Friday. Huff officially takes over her role as County Auditor on Tuesday following the Memorial Day holiday.

INITIATIVE

As part of the effort in launching the RJC initiative, there will be several community in-person and virtual screenings of the documentary, "Resilience: The Biology of Stress and the Science of Hope" that will "help people understand why we must work together to become a trauma-informed community," said Bill Barnes, Community Foundation of Madison and Jefferson County Foundation (CFMJCF) president and CEO.

Barnes said the "film points out what toxic stress does to adversely affect childhood development. It rewires the child's brain, and studies show that leads to poor health outcomes" that impacts them not only as children, but carries with them into adulthood putting them at a greater risk for disease, homelessness, prison time and early death.

The next in-person screenings of the documentary is June 16 from 6:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. at Opal Sherman Auditorium at Madison Consolidated High School. Virtual screenings via Zoom will be June 3 from 9 a.m. to 10:30 a.m. and June 8 from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. The documentary is one hour and will be followed by a brief discussion. To register for a screening or to learn more, visit the Resilient Jefferson County Facebook page.

The mission of Resilient Jefferson County is to raise awareness of Adverse Childhood Experiences, also known as ACEs, which come in many forms, from physical and mental abuse to neglect and household dysfunction. The initiative is supported by a $100,000 grant provided by Lily Endowment Inc. to CFMJCF that will also provide training opportunities in the community.

Barnes said what RJC has begun is part of a long-range effort. "We will be building on this for years," he said.

So far they have engaged nearly 30 community leaders and RJC's 10-person steering committee includes members from the schools, mental health, community corrections, the hospital, business and the non-profit sector.

Keith Howard, Healthy Communities Initiative coordinator, said the effort involves addressing the issues that are causing the problems before they happen. He related it to taking a boat upstream that flips over. Rather than dealing with the repercussions, "what if you kept the boat from overturning to begin with?"

Barnes noted many of the community problems are dealt with after the fact. "This is a chance to intervene with preventative strategy," he said.

Boone said she has "worked in hospitals and healthcare a long time," and she said hospitals can only do so much. "Healthy communities are not what the hospital does, it's about what the community does," she said, noting hospitals treat what makes people unhealthy such as smoking, obesity and substance abuse, but that the reasons people are unhealthy are "much deeper" than what's happening at the hospital.

For those unhealthy aspects of the community, Boone noted that "in the schools, they see how it affects education. For those in mental health, they see how it affects mental health. For those in law enforcement, they see the results" in crime in the community. "For people in business, they see the results in people missing work or taking time off to deal with their kids' issues."

With people in the community working together, Boone said RJC hopes the initiative makes a difference in the lives of everyone in the community "by helping us to rise above" with more people enjoying healthy lives.

TRACK REGIONAL ROUNDUP

Southwestern's Bates jumps his way to the state finals

BY THE COURIER STAFF

Southwestern's Owen Bates jumped his way into the state finals with a second-place finish in the high jump at the IHSAA Boys Track & Field Regional at Bloomington North on Thursday.

Bates, a senior, actually tied Bailen Murphy of Bloomington North for the top spot at 6 feet, 4 inches, but had to settle for second place based on attempts. This marks the third-straight year the Rebels have qualified an athlete for the state finals following Mitchell Cline in 2018 and 2019.

Bates was the only local athlete advancing to the top level. Madison's Chip Cox came close in the pole vault, placing fifth with a height of 12-feet-even.

Other finishes for Southwestern were: Kaden Zellers, eighth, long jump, 20-3.5 and 15th, 100 dash, 11.81; Bates, eighth, 110 hurdles, 17.49; 3200 relay, ninth, 8:47.58; and Brandon Smith, 14th, 300 hurdles, 46.03.

Other finishes for Madison were: Corleone Nicholson, 10th, long jump, 19-7; Jackson Falconberry, 12th, 400 dash, 53.20; Jack Kelsey, 13th, 800 run, 2:08.71; Logan Ferris, 15th, 3200 run, 11:00.41; and 1600 relay, 16th, 3:45.90.

Shawe's Sam Fewell and Switzerland County's Nathan Furnish each competed in the 1600-meter run with Fewell coming in 13th in 4:54.49 and Furnish placing 15th in 4:58.41.

Bloomington North won the regional championship with 116 points. Southwestern was 19th overall with 10 points and Madison placed 27th with four points.

The IHSAA State Finals will be held at Ben Davis High School in Indianapolis on Friday, June 4. The high jump competition will begin at 3:30 p.m.

South Ripley's players celebrate after catching Switzerland County's Maddie Duvall in a rundown for the third out in the top of the fourth inning of Thursday's IHSAA Sectional softball championship game in Vevay. The Raiders denied the Pacers all night to roll to a 6-0 win and South Ripley's first sectional title since 2001.

Pacers' spectacular season ends at hands of South Ripley

BY BOB DEMAREE

A great season ended for the Switzerland County softball team Thursday on a 6-0 loss to South Ripley in the championship game of the IHSAA Class 2A Sectional 45 in Vevay.

"Ladies, I am proud of you," Pacers coach Bryan Sparks told his players in the dugout after the game. And what's not to be proud about a season that ended with a 16-4 record.

But Thursday evening belonged to South Ripley, which won its first softball sectional championship since 2001. The Raiders got outstanding pitching from Mady Tompkins, who struck out 17 and gave up just one walk and five hits. The winners also used some scrappy base-running to push runs across more than enough runs.

Despite the final score, the game was close until South Ripley scored three runs in the bottom of the sixth inning. "I knew it would be a dogfight," Sparks said of two conference foes who had split two one-run decisions during the regular season. "They just did a better job."

South Ripley got what proved to be the game winner in the first inning when Hailey Brown scored after reaching on a fielder's choice. Brown moved to second on a wild pitch, and scored on a single by Tompkins.

South Ripley coach Shane Tompkins said the Raiders' offense struggled in the early innings.

"We wanted to hit the ball better," he said, but instead compensated by being scrappy on the basepaths until they could muster some offense later in the game.

South Ripley's lead remained 1-0 until the fourth inning when Olivia Kavanaugh, a courtesy-runner for Tompkins, scored on a combination of two stolen bases and a wild pitch after Tompkins had reached on a walk. But that was immediately followed by a solo home run by Ellie Waldron to left field that made it 3-0.

Switzerland County's Lily Sparks takes a cut at a pitch during Thursday sectional softball championship game in Vevay. The Pacers managed five hits but struck out 17 times against South Ripley ace Mady Tompkins while losing 6-0 to end their season.

In the sixth inning, the Raiders pushed another run home on a sacrifice fly by Tompkins that scored Brown, who had reached on an infield hit. South Ripley's final two runs came when Waldron doubled and Alex Heidt singled to put runners at second and third with two outs. However, before the Pacers could get out of the inning with no more damage, a grounder by Emily Campbell was bobbled leading to two more South Ripley runs and the final 6-0 margin .

"With that error, that was the game," said Coach Sparks, with the Pacers down to their final at-bat.

The Pacers' seventh inning did include opening with a Nora Hankins double, but the last three Pacers batters were strikeouts 15, 16 and 17 for Tompkins.

The Pacers had baserunners in five of the seven innings but "we could not get the big timely hit," Sparks said, adding the Swiss got a good effort from pitcher Lily Sparks, but "her stuff today was not as good" as it had been in previous outings. Sparks struck out eight to go with one walk and seven hits.

"Losing in the sectional final is heartbreaking," said coach Sparks, "But we'll pick up from this, and do better next year."

Waldron doubled and homered for the Lady Raiders while Tompkins had two RBIs and Brown scored two runs.

Tompkins was named most valuable player of the sectional. Other South Ripley players named to the all-sectional team included Waldron, Heidt, Brionna Linkel and Cassie Franklin. Switzerland County players included Jessie Duvall and Maddie Duvall. Others named to the all-sectional team were Rylie Buchanan and Jamie Caudill of Austin; Maggie Schmidt of Milan; and Abby Fulton of Southwestern.

The Raiders now advances to play Mitchell at regional at 6 p.m. on Tuesday, June 1.

Madison opens tourney with 10-3 win over North Harrison

BY DAVID CAMPBELL

SELLERSBURG — Tim Armstrong has been around the game of baseball for a long time and the veteran Madison coach knew better than anyone that records and past meetings get thrown out the window when the postseason begins.

That's why when Madison scored four runs in the top of the seventh to finally pull away for a 10-3 win over North Harrison in the Class 3A Sectional opener at Silver Creek on Thursday, Armstrong wasn't surprised. The Cubs never trailed in the game but it was far different than the 19-2 beating Madison laid on the Cougars in the season opener in late March and Armstrong expected nothing less.

"North Harrison knew what we had done to them and they were going to do everything they could to keep us from doing it again," Armstrong said. "We hit well enough but we made some bonehead mistakes and we've got to do a better job of that. But there was a little bit of pressure on them and hopefully they got it out of their system."

Madison (19-10) appeared poised to blow out the game in the first inning. Craig Demaree and Zach Forner each hammered doubles to score a run and the Cubs loaded the bases with one out. But back-to-back strikeouts ended the threat and any thoughts of an early knockout.

Madison added two more runs in the third when Keegan Clement hammered a home run off the light post in centerfield but North Harrison (9-16) came right back to tie the game in the bottom of the third when two walks, an error and a balk led directly to three runs.

But the Cubs never blinked and re-took the lead in the fourth on an infield single by Colin Yancey and an RBI groundout from Keaton Rowlett then added two more runs in the fifth on two walks and two wild pitches.

Forner, who got the start on the mound, danced in and out of trouble all night and left the mound in the fifth after giving up a triple and hitting a batter. Armstrong gave the ball to Ben Orrill who promptly walked the first batter he faced to load the bases but then regrouped to strike out the next two and end the threat.

Madison pitcher Zach Forner winds up during the Cubs' sectional win over North Harrison on Thursday at Silver Creek.

Madison took a 6-3 lead into the seventh when it finally chased Isaiah Lawson off the mound and the Cubs went to work against reliever Colin Higdon, scoring four times to finally blow open the game.

Forner (4-1) picked up the win after allowing three unearned runs on five hits in four and a third innings with four strikeouts and three walks.

No. 9 Rebels shake slow start, roll over South Decatur

BY JORDAN BEAR

VERSAILLES — Jordan DeAtley never panicked after giving up an early 4-0 lead in the first inning and was spectacular from the second inning on as Class 2A No. 9 Southwestern rallied to beat South Decatur 13-5 in the semifinals of the Class 2A Baseball Sectional at South Ripley on Thursday.

The Rebels were hit with a haymaker in the first inning as the young Cougars sent nine batters to the plate and scored four runs to seize an early 4-0 lead.

But Southwestern is no stranger to being down early in big games and coach Dan Thurston said while it obviously wasn't the start his team wanted, he knew the Rebels would respond.

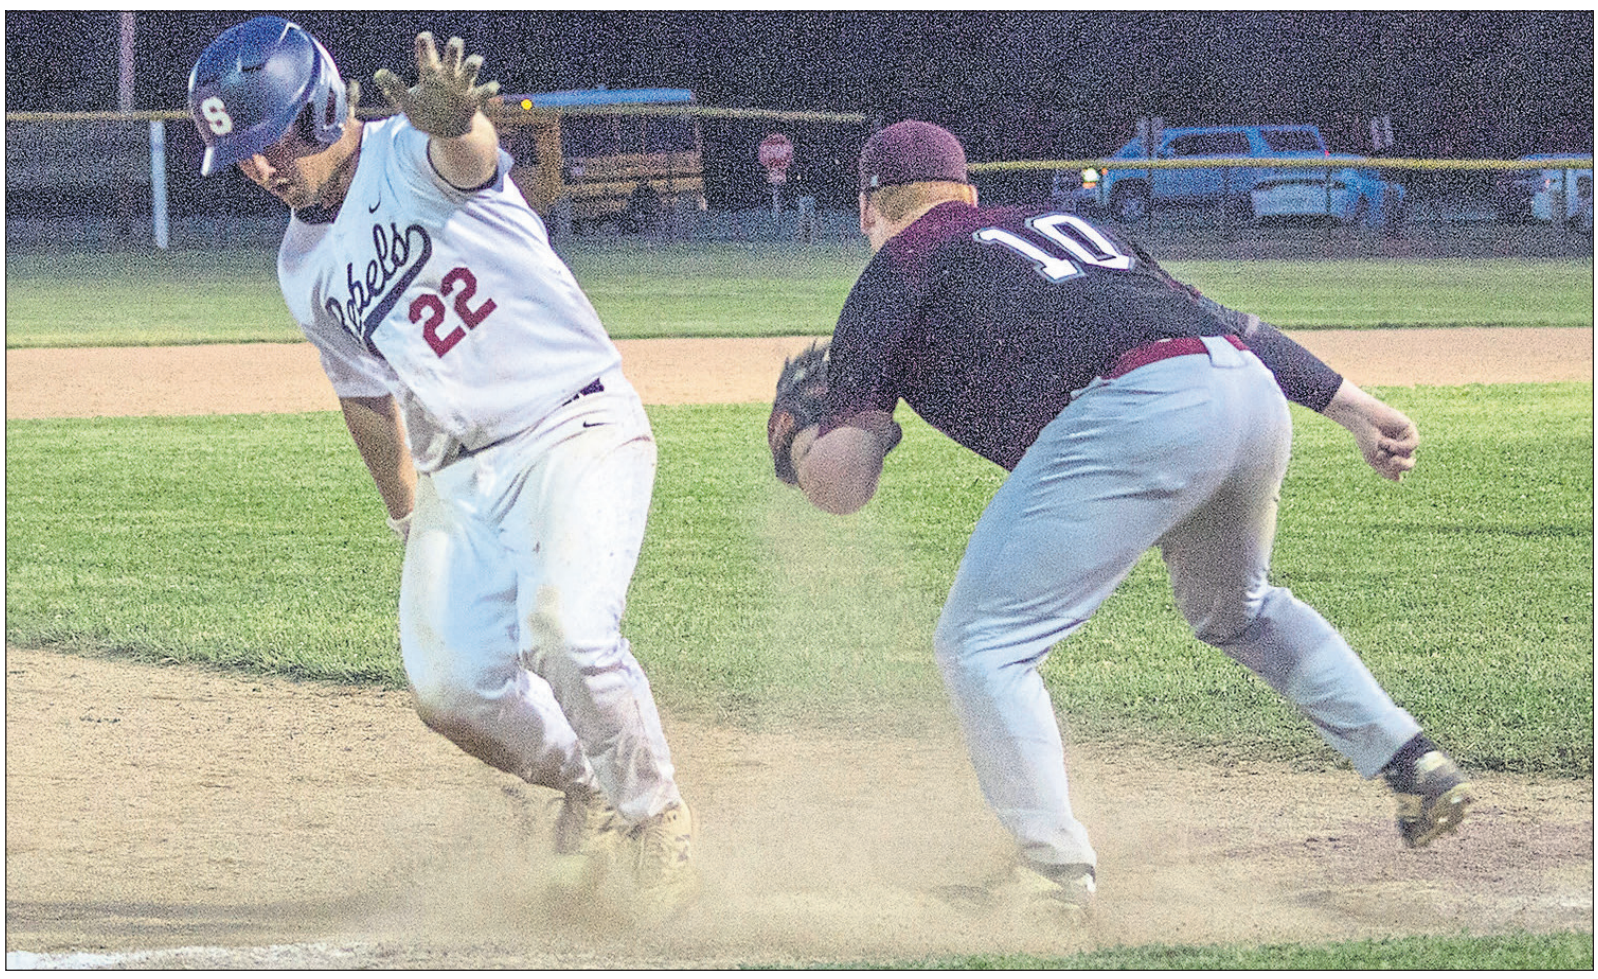
"It's a seven-inning game and I knew that we were going to have our chances to get to the plate and get our opportunities," Thurston said. "I knew we would have our chances to get those runs back."

The Rebels (23-7) quickly responded by scoring a run in each of the first two innings to cut the South Decatur lead in half. William Stockdale drove in the run in the first inning and Foster Mefford had an RBI triple in the second to keep the Rebels within striking distance.

The Southwestern offense then took over in the fourth inning. After a sacrifice bunt brought in one run, junior Zach Cole smashed a two-run single to give the Rebels a lead they would never relinquish. Southwestern then put the game away in the fifth and sixth innings by scoring eight more runs to run away to the 13-5 win.

DeAtley (7-2) went five innings on the mound, allowing the four runs early but then pitching spectacular to finish with eight strikeouts.

"I really didn't say anything to him. I trust Jordan that he knows what he's doing and that he would get the game under control," Thurston said. "He was throwing strikes but his pitches were high and well over the plate. But he calmed down, and relaxed and got into a groove and was awesome on the mound after that first inning."



Stephanie Hellmann

Southwestern's Zach Cole (22) slides into second during the Rebels' win over South Decatur in the sectional semifinals on Thursday.

Mefford led the way at the plate for the Rebels going 3-for-4 with a double, a triple and a single and two RBIs. Zach Cole, Landon DeAtley, William Stockdale, Brady McClain and Jamison Lewis each had two RBIs as well.

Cole also pitched two innings of relief and allowed an unearned run in the 7th inning, but also struck out four batters in his two innings of work.

The Rebels now play host South Ripley, a 4-3 walk-off come-from-behind winner over Milan, in Thursday's first semifinal. The Rebels swept their season series over the Raiders, winning 6-4 and 10-3, respectively, but Southwestern will likely see the best pitcher they've seen all year in Brady Linkel on Monday. Linkel, an Ohio University signee, struck out 16 batters in a win over North Decatur on Wednesday.

Thurston knows how good Linkel is, but he also knows his team will be ready.

"We know Linkel throws hard but he throws strikes and he doesn't walk many people. If we strike out 12 to 16 times then I want my players to be hacking at every pitch," Thurston said. "He's going to throw strikes so our chances will be there. This team will be ready to go win a championship on Monday."

The Rebels will be looking for their first sectional championship since 1999. The game will be played at 11 a.m. on Memorial Day at South Ripley.

Switzerland falls in close 5-3 battle against Milan

BY THE COURIER STAFF

Switzerland County put up a fight, but the Pacers ended up on the wrong end of a 5-3 loss in the opening round of the Class 2A Baseball Sectional at South Ripley on Wednesday.

Milan scored all the runs it needed by pushing four across the plate in the bottom of the third inning.

Switzerland battled back, getting two runs on an RBI by Kobe Roark and an error to cut the margin in half. After Milan added a run on a Chandler Rutherford home run in the fifth, scored in a sacrifice fly by Bryce Turner in the sixth to close the gap to 5-3.

The Pacers then left two runners on base in each of the last two innings and lost by two.

Kaleb Koons finished the game with two hits and a run scored while Drew Chatham had two hits. Turner and Trace Johnson added hits.

Dakota Wallace (1-3) took the loss after allowing four earned runs on seven hits in five innings with nine strikeouts.

Switzerland ends the season at 3-16.

Ginn ties school record with 12th home run in Trimble rout of Gallatin

BY THE COURIER STAFF

Emma Ginn tied a school record with her 12th home run of the season and the Trimble County softball team closed out the regular season in style with a 16-0 rout of Gallatin County on Thursday in Warsaw.

Ginn, who was 5-for-5 with the home run, a double, five RBIs and three runs scored in the game, raised her season batting average to .659 and RBI total to 67, both of which now lead the state of Kentucky. Her 12 home runs, currently 10th in the state, ties a record set by Abbi Ponder two years ago.

Ginn wasn't the only Raider to have a big game at the plate. Rachael Liter, who is hitting .549, was 3-for-4 with a double, three RBIs and two runs scored, Shelby Wilcoxson was 2-for-4 with two RBIs and a run, and Addison Edmondson, Lauren Haney and Maddie Nixon each had doubles.

That was more than enough offense for the Raiders' McKenna Ritchie and Emma Horn who combined for a no-hitter in the circle. Ritchie (18-7) got the win after striking out two batters in two innings and Horn struck out one and walked one in three innings of relief.

Trimble finishes the regular season with a 23-10 overall record and 11-2 in the North Central Kentucky Conference. The Raiders will be the No. 2 seed in the 31st District Tournament and will face the winner between Carroll County and Eminence in the semifinals on Monday at Carroll County.

PANTHERS FALL 6-2 TO NORTH OLDHAM

Errors proved to be the difference as Carroll County dropped a 6-2 decision to North Oldham Thursday on the road.

The Panthers and Mustangs each had five hits in the game but Carroll's four errors led to five unearned runs to hand North Oldham the win.

Kamryn Knight had a single and a double for the Panthers, Bailey Stewart had a double and a run, and Lexy Williams and Mallory Noble each had a hit.

Noble (6-12) took the loss despite allowing just one earned run on five hits in six innings.

Carroll, now 6-12, closed out the regular season with a game at Oldham County on Friday. The Panthers will then host Eminence today in the opening round of the 31st District Tournament starting at 3:30 p.m.

Orrill recorded his first save of the season with five strikeouts in two and two-thirds scoreless and hitless innings in relief.

"A lot of people probably thought we were throwing off, but we weren't throwing off, we were throwing a No. 3," Armstrong said of his decision to go with Forner rather than Orrill to start. "Our mentality right now is, if we're going to win this thing, we have to have our best on Monday (in the championship). Everybody says win and advance and I agree with that and that's why Orrill came in, but that was why we did that."

Along with his win on the mound, Forner was also 3-for-4 at the plate with two doubles, two RBIs and a run scored. Orrill had two hits and scored three times and Rowlett had a hit.

Madison advanced to the semifinals on Friday where it was to face Salem (14-10), a 4-1 winner over Brownstown on Thursday afternoon

However, rain was forecast on Friday and if the game postpones it will be played today at 4 p.m.

Should the Cubs win, they would advance to the championship game on Monday. That contest starts at noon.

Monitor and guard your credit rating

"Layin' it on the line"

"The reason to monitor your credit report and credit score dates back to Benjamin Franklin who said: Beware of little expenses; a small leak will sink a great ship."
– Stephen Dybwad

Smart people who want to understand more about money earn the first rule: Learn how do credit bureaus compute credit scores? Many credit reporting bureaus or agencies gather information on the subject of the debtor's credit history or files from reliable private and public sources. They also collect data from the creditors who extended the loan to the debtor.

Accordingly, the information is clustered into five sets or categories with the corresponding percentages which reflect the importance of each category in the final computation of scores, namely:

- Owed Amount – 30%,
- History of Payments – 30%
- Duration of Credit Record – 15%,
- Nature or Kinds of Credit Currently in Use – 10%, and lastly
- Latest Credit Inquiries – 10%.

Generally, these credit bureaus calculate the debtor's credit score using a three-figure number which ranges from 300 up to 850. The higher the credit score, the better the chance of acquiring low interest rates for the loan being applied for and a better opening for wealth accumulation.

The industry of credit scoring has been generating different opinions and widespread reactions to the public. The consumers fear that credit-based rating or scoring will pose a negative impact or unjust rating to them and will affect their economic standing and other financial transactions.

Some credit bureaus justify their purpose of gathering information and making credit ratings or scoring. For them, their work is to help lending businesses formulate efficient economic decisions.

Others create a distinction between the credit-based scores of insurance companies that predict the loss of propensity and the credit scores, which merely indicate the worthiness of a certain person to pay. A distinctive company should develop its credit-based rating or scoring algorithm to serve better consumers. Here are some of the strategies adopted in credit scoring:

The use of a Credit Assistance Group can help. These groups are often community volunteers or services provided by larger organizations such as AARP. They are the quick response group that will assist consumers in calling through toll-free numbers. The public would certainly like to know the effect of credit records on their application of loans, mortgages, employment, and insurance transactions.

Included in the team's responsibility is making reports on the consumers' credit insurance. This report will show the consumer's variable score and the comparison with the aggregate scores.

The team will consider previous credit records and the possible effect of extraordinary events which resulted in low scoring. They will help the consumers by directing or referring them to the right people who will help them take good care of their credit problems. They can also assist in correcting errors in the credit records of the concerned consumer.

If something is wrong with your credit score, you must take immediate action. Your credit score is becoming more important as companies look at the score for insurance, lending, and other social service and health care issues.

Monitor your credit report and do so as a free service. The three nationwide credit reporting companies have set up a central website, a toll-free telephone number, and a mailing address through which you can order your free annual report.

To order, visit annualcreditreport.com, call 1-877-322-8228. Or complete the Annual Credit Report Request Form and mail it to: Annual Credit Report Request Service, P.O. Box 105281, Atlanta, GA 30348-5281. Do not contact the three nationwide credit reporting companies individually. They are providing free annual credit reports only through annualcreditreport.com, 1-877-322-8228 or mailing to Annual Credit Report Request Service.

You may order your reports from each of the three nationwide credit reporting companies at the same time, or you can order your report from each of the companies one at a time. The law allows you to order one free copy of your report from each of the nationwide credit reporting companies every 12 months.

With the continued research and study on the needs of the consumers, these credit scoring bureaus will genuinely make a difference to the lending and insurance world as well as to us as consumers.

Public Notice
Des. No. 1801684
The Indiana Department of Transportation (INDOT) is planning to undertake a slide correction project, funded in part by the Federal Highway Administration (FHWA). The project is located SR 7 from 0.50 mile to 0.78 mile north of SR 56 in Jefferson County, Indiana. It is within Madison Township, Madison West USGS Topographic Quadrangles, in Section 34, Township 4 North, Range 10 East.
Under the preferred alternative, the proposed undertaking involves utilizing soil nails to stabilize the downslope of roadway embankment the entire length of the project limits. Concrete curb and gutters will be placed along the present downslope side in front of the soil wall, redirecting water from behind the soil wall and increasing stability of the soil wall. The roadway is proposed to be milled and resurfaced, existing inlets removed and replaced, all 5 existing 24" pipes replaced with 10-foot-wide HMA patching, the existing upslope paved side ditch repaired with a uniform riprap lined ditch, new installation of riprap lined ditches at each of the 5 pipe outlets, existing guardrail removed and replaced, and the existing shoulder removed and replaced with aggregate. There will be some tree clearing in the downslope area of the roadway for construction access. At the bottom of the downslope, mulched seeding will be placed to the construction limits. On the north end of the slide correction area is a culvert, CV 007-039-00.80, in which this project proposes to replace the damaged headwall and stabilize the ground on the south side of the culvert. Properties listed in or eligible for the National Register of Historic Places (NRHP) located within the Area of Potential Effects (APE) include the Madison Historic District, NR-2038. The proposed action impacts properties listed in or eligible for the NRHP. The Indiana Department of Transportation (INDOT), on behalf of the FHWA, has issued a "No Adverse Effect" finding for the project because the project will not diminish the integrity of the characteristics that qualify the historic properties within the APE for inclusion in the NRHP. In accordance with the National Historic Preservation Act, the views of the public are being sought regarding the effect of the proposed project on the historic elements as per 36 CFR 800.2(d), 800.3(e) and 800.6(a)(4). Pursuant to 36 CFR 800.4(d)(2), the documentation specified in 36 CFR 800.11(e) is available for inspection in SJCA Inc. 1104 Prospect St. Indianapolis, IN, 46203. Additionally, this documentation can be viewed electronically by accessing INDOT's Section 106 document posting website IN SCOPE at http://erms.indot.in.gov/Section106Documents. This documentation serves as the basis for the "No Adverse Effect" finding. The views of the public on this effect finding are being sought. Please reply with any comments to Karen Wood, SJCA Inc. 1104 Prospect St. Indianapolis, IN, 46203; (317) 566-0629 or kwood@sjcainc.com no later than June 29, 2021.
In accordance with the "Americans with Disabilities Act", if you have a disability for which INDOT needs to provide accessibility to the document(s) such as interpreters or readers, please contact William Fortson, (812) 524-3745, wfortson@indot.in.gov.
